

HISTORY EVENTS, MOSTLY IN CENTRAL VERMONT 2019

(last updated August 12th)

If you're aware of additional Central Vermont events, please share them with us at historicalsociety@berlinvt.org

Note this listing will be updated with more specifics on the Berlin Historical Society (BHS) programs and locations. Some programs for BHS may have a change of location this year.

When updating this listing for 2019, programs that have already happened will not be removed as it can be good reference for venues that have historic programs, you might be able to find the program later at another location, or even be the host to such a program.

Tuesday, September 10th 7pm – “Getting From Here to There: A History of Roads and Settlement in Vermont” at Berlin Elementary School. The difficulties of traveling in Vermont played a significant role in the state’s settlement, development, culture and politics. But Vermonters weren’t always eager to have good roads. Opposition began in 1753, when the Abenaki joined forces with the French to protest the building of a British military road along an established Abenaki trail. Resistance to new roads has continued ever since, from the Green Mountain Parkway to the building of the interstates. Novelist Deborah Lee Luskin asks, given this opposition, how is it we now drive cars in all seasons, in all weathers, in all corners of the state? A Vermont Humanities event hosted by Berlin Historical Society at Berlin Elem. School 372 Paine Turnpike North. FREE admission. historicalsociety@berlinvt.org (802) 552-8804
